GOSPEL PEARLS

They went across the lake to the region of the Gerasenes. When Jesus got out of the boat, a man with an impure spirit came from the tombs to meet him. This man lived in the tombs, and no one could bind him anymore, not even with a chain. For he had often been chained hand and foot, but he tore the chains apart and broke the irons on his feet. No one was strong enough to subdue him. Night and day among the tombs and in the hills he would cry out and cut himself with stones. When he saw Jesus from a distance, he ran and fell on his knees in front of him. He shouted at the top of his voice, “

What do you want with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? In God's name don't torture me! " For Jesus had said to him, "Come out of this man, you impure spirit!" Then Jesus asked him, " What is your name?" "My name is Legion," he replied, "for we are many." And he begged Jesus again and again not to send them out of the area. A large herd of pigs was feeding on the nearby hillside. The demons begged Jesus, "Send us among the pigs; allow us to go into them." He gave them permission, and the impure spirits came out and went into the pigs. The herd, about two thousand in number, rushed down the steep bank into the lake and were drowned. Those tending the pigs ran off and reported this in the town and countryside, and the people went out to see what had happened. When they came to Jesus, they saw the man who had been possessed by the legion of demons, sitting there, dressed and in his right mind; and they were afraid. Those who had seen it told the people what had happened to the demon-possessed man—and told about the pigs as well. Then the people began to plead with Jesus to leave their region. As Jesus was getting into the boat, the man who had been demon-possessed begged to go with him. Jesus did not let him, but said, "Go home to your own people and tell them how much the Lord has done for you, and how he has had mercy on you." So the man went away and began to tell in the Decapolis how much Jesus had done for him. And all the people were amazed. (Mark 5: 1-20)

Contrary to what many people think, we don't need miracles to believe in Jesus. On the contrary, in certain cases such signs may hinder us from proclaiming the Kingdom of Heaven. We see this in the Gospel when Jesus frees a possessed man, but is then urged by the villagers to leave so as not to perform any more miracles. Again, unlike what many believe, consecrated life requires leaving everything in order to follow Jesus, and yet this is not a choice, but a calling. Indeed, it is not enough to want it, but one must be actually called to the life by God. In fact, Jesus does not allow the freed man to follow Him, even though he wanted to. When hearing the witness of consecrated persons (a priest, monk, nun, etc.), may we no longer say they made a good choice, but rather responded well to God's call.
