Words are important, support Daily Compass

FUND RAISING 17_07_2026

Riccardo Cascioli

"Words are used today not to reveal reality, but to conceal it or even to overturn it." This was the criticism levelled by Cardinal Robert Sarah two days ago in a memorable speech at the conference at the European Parliament, which we reported on.

The reference is, of course, to the elites who govern Western countries in general and the European Union in particular. And no one is more aware than we at the Daily Compass of this dramatic situation, which is heading towards an anthropological revolution, seeking to deny the truth about man in order to replace it with false ideologies that make him a slave to power.

No one is more aware of this than we are because Daily Compass fights every day against this ideology, which has penetrated deeply even into the Church.

It is a battle that grows tougher by the day because – as we are documenting – those who govern European countries are introducing ever stricter rules to impose these anti-human ideologies and silence those who still dare to bear witness to the Truth.

This is why it is so important to support the Daily Compass, a Catholic daily newspaper that relies solely on donations from its readers. We are all involved in this battle for the Truth, each in our own sphere and according to our own means. And Daily Compass is an essential point of reference for these people who do not wish to renounce the Truth, who do not wish to give up their dignity.

It goes without saying that financial support for the Daily Compass is part of this battle; we truly need the help of every one of you. We are now in the final week of this summer fundraising campaign; so far, we have raised around 44,000 euros: certainly a significant sum, and we can only thank each and every one of you who has responded generously to our appeals.

But much more is needed to maintain our presence on all fronts of this battle. That is why I am asking you to make one final effort during these last few days of the campaign to provide financial support to Daily Compass.

Donating is easy: by credit card, bank transfer or postal order. You can find full details on our website by clicking on the campaign banner or the 'Support Us' button.
